

PRIVACY POLICY

1. Data collection

We collect data when you sign up on the site, log in to your account, make investments, participate in any actions and/or log out. The collected data includes your name, email address, and payment details.

In addition, we automatically register your computer and browser, including IP, software and hardware data, as well as the URL requested.

2. Data use

The data collected from you may be used to:

Pay income

Make the services conform to your individual queries

Improve our website

Improve the user support system

Contact you by email

Hold any action/competition or arrange any exploration

3. Personal data protection in online sales

We are the sole holder of data collected on this website. Your personal data will neither be sold nor otherwise transferred to any third parties for any reason, except for the data necessary to meet a query or perform a transaction.

4. Data disclosure to third parties

We do not sell, exchange or transfer your personal data to any third companies. It does not apply to any reliable companies assisting us to run the website and conduct the business, provided that such companies agree to keep the data confidential.

We are ready to share data in order to prevent crimes or assist to investigate them if there is any suspicion of frauds, actions endangering the bodily safety of people, breaches of the use regulations, or in any other cases stipulated under the law.

5. Data protection

We use various security features to ensure the safety of your personal data. You can benefit from the most advanced encryption. Access to the personal data is granted solely to the employees handling a specific task (such as technical support or payment). All servers and computers having any recorded confidential information are located in a safe environment.

6. Use of cookies

Our cookies are used to improve access to the website and identify any repeated visits. In addition, they allow tracking the most popular queries. Cookies do not transmit any confidential information.

7. Subscription

We use your email to provide you with any information about deposits, company news, and technical data.

8. Agreement

By using the services of our website, you automatically agree to our privacy policy.